Introduction:

We in Carrickmannon Primary School view the development and implementation of a policy in Relationships and Sexuality (RSE) as an important step towards achieving our aim to develop all aspects of a child's personality and growth, including the aesthetic, creative, critical, cultural, emotional, intellectual, moral, physical, political, social and spiritual development for personal and family life, for working life, for living in the community and for leisure. The morals and values of our Christian ethos are the core principles that underpin the teaching of RSE.

Relationships and Sexuality Education (RSE) is a lifelong process which encompasses the acquisition of knowledge, understanding and skills, and the development of attitudes, beliefs and values about personal and social relationships and gender issues. Sexuality includes all aspects of the human person that relate to being male or female and is subject to change and development throughout life. It is a complex dimension of human life and relationships. As the learning process begins informally in the home we will endeavour to engage in full consultation with parents regarding the aims, objectives and teaching programme of this policy and their views will be considered when implementing and reviewing the policy.

Context:

The revised Northern Ireland curriculum aims to empower young people to achieve their potential and to make informed and responsible decisions throughout their lives. Elements of RSE are embedded in many areas of the revised curriculum. Personal Development and Mutual Understanding, the World Around Us and Religious Education.

Cross Curricular Links:

This document reflects the core principles of other related policies. Aspects of RSE are likely to be addressed already within school's Code of Conduct for Employees, Positive Behaviour Policy and Intimate Care Policy, all of which are circulated to all teaching and non-teaching staff.

Teaching RSE should provide opportunities that enable pupils to:

- Form values and establish behaviour within a moral, spiritual and social framework,
- Learn how to develop and enjoy personal relationships and friendships which are based on responsibility and mutual respect,
- Build the foundations for developing more positive personal relationships in later life,
- Make positive, responsible choices about themselves and others and the way they live their lives.

Aims:

In Carrickmannon Primary School we aim to:

- Develop a loving pride in one's family and an appreciation and understanding of the importance of Christian values,
- Promote an appreciation of the importance of the family unit (regardless of structure/composition),
- Enhance the personal development, self-esteem and wellbeing of each child
- Help the children to develop healthy and respectful friendships within the school and at home,
- Develop an understanding of how human relationships grow and deepen through friendship, love and affection,
- Promote an appreciation of the value of human life and the wonder of birth.

Learning Outcomes:

The RSE curriculum should enable pupils to:

- Develop a positive sense of self awareness, self-esteem and self-worth,
- Develop an appreciation of the dignity, uniqueness and wellbeing of others,
- Develop personal skills which help to establish and sustain healthy personal relationships,
- Acquire and improve skills of communication and social interaction,
- Acquire and use an appropriate vocabulary to discuss feelings, growth and development,
- Become aware of the variety of ways in which individuals grow and change,
- Develop a critical understanding of external influences on lifestyles and decision making.

Skills:

The RSE curriculum should enable pupils to develop:

- Communication skills – putting one's own views clearly and appropriately; listening to others' points of view; handling and resolving conflict peacefully,
- Decision making and problem solving skills – for sensible and responsible choices; making moral judgements about what to do in actual situations,
- Inter – personal skills for managing relationships confidently and effectively; for developing as an effective group member or leader,
- Practical skills – for everyday living; for supporting others; for future parenting.

Morals and values:

The RSE curriculum promotes the moral values of our Christian principles and enables the children to begin to develop:

- A respect for self,
- A respect for others,
- Honesty with self and others,
- Self-discipline,
- The difference between right and wrong,
- The responsibility for one's own actions,

- The recognition of the moral dimension to situations,
- An understanding of the long term and short term consequences of their actions.

How will we achieve our aims?

The effectiveness of this RSE policy and programme is dependent on a collaborative process involving teachers, parents, governors and other educational and health professionals. Each of the partners has distinctive contributions to make. Teachers, governors and parents can raise any concerns they might have about RSE issues and the Senior Management will address these or refer to the BOG if necessary.

The Role of the Principal:

A planned, structured and coherent approach to RSE will be sought throughout the school. Implementing this, and other related policies will be managed by the member of staff with responsibility for Child Protection and overseen by the Senior Management. Consultation will need to be initiated with governors, staff, parents, health professionals and other relevant community representatives as necessary.

The Role of Governors:

The governors will try to foster and support the development of our RSE policy and similar related policies by collaborating with teachers and parents where necessary. They shall facilitate the consultative process whereby the school community can respond and contribute on relevant issues. The governors of the school will seek to accommodate and be sensitive to the spiritual and cultural beliefs of both teachers and parents while fulfilling their responsibility to ensure the availability of adequate RSE for all children.

The Role of Teachers:

The classroom teacher has a significant and diverse role to play in the planning and implementation of RSE in the school. At all times the role must be considered to be complementary to that of parents, taking cognisance of the individual needs, age, maturity, stage of development and family background of the child. The class teacher will strive to promote the aims of this policy and other related policies and deliver the requirements of RSE at the level appropriate to their particular class.

Involving Parents:

Our aim is to develop a structure which enables both parents and teachers to work together. The home exerts a major influence on all aspects of a child's life, and especially so in the domain of relationships and sexuality. Parents are often concerned about the information their children are receiving from their peers and from television, videos, newspapers and magazines. We will attempt to provide opportunities for pupils to consider this information and ensure they receive accurate information. Where puberty-related changes are being covered with P7 classes, parents are informed about when these talks will take place, the content to be covered and the activities that pupils will undertake.

Organisation:

The primary curriculum offers opportunities to develop an RSE programme in a holistic and cross curricular way. Issues can be integrated within specific topics, discussed in subject-related contexts, addressed through health education, pastoral work and at assembly time as well as during visits from the school nurse, local doctor or other agency. It is important, therefore, for schools to consider the links that exist between RSE and the other curricular areas at each key stage. A review of existing provision will reveal where aspects of their proposed content are being covered already and where there are gaps in provision. In many instances, RSE shares content with WAU, Religious Education, Physical Education, TSPC and PDMU. Circle Time may be used as an appropriate tool to engage children in RSE.

Equal Opportunities:

Generally RSE will be taught in mixed groups, so that boys and girls are encouraged to work with each other and gain an understanding of each other's perspectives. However, there will be times that teachers or the school nurse will work with single gender groups. The programme of RSE delivered will be accessible to all pupils regardless of age, culture, disability, sexual orientation, gender or social class.

Confidentiality in the Classroom

At Carrickmannon Primary School we respect the child's right to privacy. A key rule to agree in advance of any discussion is that no one will be expected to ask or answer any personal questions. It is equally important that the teacher shares this right and never feels obliged to impart information about his/her own personal life. However as teachers we should not promise confidentiality. A child does not have the right to expect that incidents in the classroom or in the wider context of the school will not be reported, as appropriate, to his or her parents and/or the principal. Both pupils and parents should be informed that confidentiality cannot be maintained if:

- Physical or sexual abuse is suspected.
- A child confides in a member of staff and requests that the information is kept secret, the child must be told, sensitively, that the matter must be reported the principal or designated teacher must be informed of any disclosures which might suggest that a pupil is at risk or to the appropriate agencies. Decisions can then be taken in accordance with the procedures detailed in the Department's booklet Safeguarding and Child Protection – A Guide for Schools (Circular 2017/04).

Teachers can provide general educational advice to all pupils as part of the curriculum. This general advice can be given to pupils individually or within group situations. It is important that the type of advice and the manner in which it is given is supportive of the role of the parents. There will be occasions when teachers will have to exercise their discretion and judgment about how to deal with particular issues raised by an individual or by a group of pupils. An initial judgment will need to be made about whether or not it is appropriate to deal with the issues with the whole class. The teacher may wish to discuss the issues with the parents to see how they would like the matter to be handled. Teacher colleagues or the school nurse may be approached for advice. It may be appropriate to respond to the issues with individual pupils or to arrange time for group discussion outside class time. In all cases, teachers should encourage pupils to discuss any issues and concerns they might have with their parents if this is appropriate. The first concern of parents is likely to be for the safety and well-being of their children. It is important that if pupils cannot talk or do not wish to talk to their parents, they have access to support from sympathetic teachers at school.

Answering Pupil Questions

As a school we may need to consider our responses to specific issues. Using a Worry/Feelings box, pupils can write down questions anonymously at any time and post them in the box. This strategy gives teachers time to consider an appropriate depth of response and, if necessary, to consult with parents.

Monitoring, Review and Evaluation of this Policy:

This policy will be under periodic review. Any changes in provision or policy will be relayed appropriately. The review process will be assisted by the information from teachers, which will have been gained through the teaching situation. Feedback from parents, governors, outside agencies and pupils will also impinge on the process. Necessary changes in policy will be implemented.
